(Staten Island Rapid Transit Operating Authority

1. The Staten Island Rapid Transit Operating Authority violated the controlling agreement by arbitrarily suspending Machinist Peter F. Raggi from service beginning November 6, 1978 and continuing through December 5, 1978.
2. Accordingly, Machinist Peter F. Raggi should be compensated for all wages and benefits lost as a result of the improper suspension and his record cleared.

In his testimony at the investigation, the Claimant conceded that he refused to permit the Carrier's physician to include in his examination blood samples and an X-ray, which the Carrier felt were necessary to verify the Claimant's asserted physical condition concerning his ulcer. When asked if he felt that the blood test and the X-ray would constitute a hazard to his health, he stated, "very well might".

The Claimant's reluctance was explained in medical terms by the Claimant's personal physician, who outlined the Employee's renal problems and continued dialysis. Nonetheless, the Claimant admitted that he would permit X-rays when a "definite emergency" was involved. Moreover, the testimony demonstrated that on a number of occasions throughout the year the Claimant was subjected to X-ray pictures and to blood drawing.

Certainly, this Board would not condone any requested Carrier action which would place an employee in a serious health jeopardy, or would constitute a real hazard to his wellbeing. At the same time, we are quite familiar with the often expressed concept that a Carrier has a very broad right to obtain medical information about its employees from a physician of its own choosing, and that disciplinary sanctions may be imposed if an employee refuses to cooperate. See, for example, Award No. 48, ~~Lines East~~, Special Board of Adjustment No. 589.

The Board has considered the transcript at length in this case. We feel it a mandatory obligation to assure that we are not sanctioning a disciplinary action which resulted from an activity taken by the Employee based upon a real and objective appraisal that compliance was harmful to his health. Based upon the entire transcript, we are unable to find a valid basis for such a conclusion, and accordingly, we will deny the claim.
