A derailment at Holmes Gap, Tennessee, prompted the calling of the wrecking outfit and crew stationed at Nashville, Tennessee to clear the wreckage. The wrecking outfit/crew departed Nashville at 2:20 a.m. on November 27, 1979 and arrived at Holmes Gap at 7:45 a.m. By 5:00 p.m. on that date work was complete at which time the wrecking outfit/crew departed for Watertown, Tennessee. It arrived at Watertown at 7:30 p.m. at which time the Claimants -- Fielder, Bishop, Lee, Daugherty and Malone -- were directed to take a taxi to Nashville; they arrived at 9:00 p.m. Crew member Mingle (and, per the Organization, Reffeggee) accompanied the wrecking outfit back to its home base, arriving and being relieved from duty at 2:00 a.m. Claims were initiated for Fielder, Bishop, Lee and Daugherty for the five hours difference between their arrival and the return of the wrecking outfit and other crew member(s). (Carman Malone was overlooked in the filing of the Claim.)

Award No. 9752
Docket No. 9412

The fact situation in this Award is not at variance in any particularity with Award 9749, Award 9750, and Award 9751 between these same parties. We find the same conclusion applicable here; Rule 108 which states in pertinent part that -- "for wrecks or derailments outside of yard limits, the regular assigned crew will accompany the wrecking outfit" -- is properly applied as in such cases. We find no qualifying provisions that requires application of this provision for travel in one direction and not the other. We do find such literal interpretation applicable only to the regularly assigned crew and not to other carmen called off overtime board, etc.
