"RS" Tower at Leewood Yard, Memphis, Tennessee, was shut down on July 4, 1988, a national holiday. Prior to closing the Tower for the holiday, Operators were instructed to leave switches controlled by "RS" in a certain configuration when going off duty. At 1:30 A.M. on July 5, 1988, a train departed Leewood Yard and proceeded by the Tower without having to manipulate the track alignment. There was no Operator on duty at the time because the third track was still observing the holiday. This Claim was filed contending that the Agreement was violated when the Trainmaster gave permission to pass a positive block controlled by the Tower.

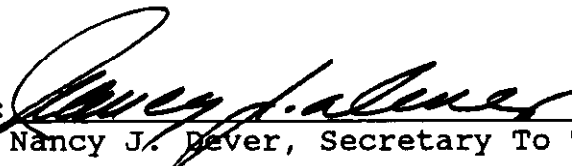

The Board is not persuaded that the Claim has merit. An issue quite similar to this, involving the same Tower, was decided in Award 43, Public Law Board No. 3545. That decision is controlling here.
